

Florida

When a family or individual is faced with a progressive condition such as DM1 or DM2 they are often presented with additional financial expenses as well as loss of a steady income. This section attempts to gather financial resources that are available on a state level for persons living in the United States. By no means is this section complete; we invite you to share with us any resources you've identified.

This is an on-going project. We will add more resources as we gather them; please send us resources you know of that are not currently listed.

Please be advised that each organization has its own eligibility and application requirements. None of these organizations are affiliated with the Myotonic Dystrophy Foundation. We hope you will share your experiences with us – let us know if you are successful in finding a good resource to help your family.

Financial Resources

The ABLE Trust: The Able Trust, also known as the Florida Endowment Foundation for Vocational Rehabilitation, is a 501(c)(3) public-private partnership foundation. Its mission is to be a key leader in providing Floridians with disabilities opportunities for successful employment. The Able Trust works with community organizations throughout the state to help thousands of Floridians with disabilities enter the workforce. The Able Trust youth programs provide career development and transition to many students with disabilities annually, helping to reduce the dropout rate and prepare young adults for life beyond high school. The Able Trust supports a diversity of projects, including on-the-job coaching, supported employment, job skills-training, job development, employer outreach, ADA facility compliance, skills evaluation and programs leading to employment. <http://www.abletrust.org/about-us>

Agency for Persons with Disabilities: The APD works in partnership with local communities and private providers to assist people who have developmental disabilities and their families. APD also provides assistance in identifying the needs of people with developmental disabilities for supports and services. They also provide support and resource for families and individuals in crisis, employment opportunities and support, self-advocacy training, and more. <http://apd.myflorida.com/customers/application/>

Able United: ABLE United was established to encourage and assist people with disabilities to save private funds to support health, independence and quality of life. To qualify you must be a Florida resident with disease onset prior to 26 years old. An ABLE United account is a tax-free savings account for your future. The individual with a disability owns the account, but an authorized person may establish and help oversee the account. You can save up to $14,000/year with help from family/caretakers, and it will not affect Medicaid coverage.

Center for Child Development: The Center for Child Development was designed to address the developmental and behavioral concerns that parents and other caregivers may have about newborns and children. They work together with you and your pediatrician or pediatric nurse practitioner to complete an in-depth look at your child's development. <http://www.centerforchilddevelopment.com/>

Florida Department of Children and Families Cash Assistance Program: The TCA program provides cash assistance to families with children under the age of 18 (or 19 if enrolled full time in school). The program helps families become self-supportive while allowing children to remain in their own homes. Pregnant women may also receive TCA, either in the third trimester of pregnancy if unable to work, or in the 9th month of pregnancy. Parents, children and minor siblings who live together must apply together.

The relative caregiver program is a subset of the TCA program that provides monthly cash assistance to relatives who meet eligibility rules and have custody of a child under age 18, who has been court ordered dependent by a Florida court and placed in their home by the Department of Children and Families. The monthly cash assistance amount is higher than the Temporary Cash Assistance for one child, but less than the amount paid for a child in the foster care program.

Florida Developmental Disabilities Council: The Florida Developmental Disabilities Council was established in 1971 to help plan individual and family-centered supports for persons with disabilities in Florida. The Council also guides the development and administration of services for people with developmental disabilities by planning and funding research, innovations, and programs designed to improve the quality of their lives. They provide access to Florida and National Resources, including financial resources, as well as community and educational opportunities. <http://www.fddc.org/>

Florida Optional State Supplementation (OSS) for Assisted Living: This cash benefit is available to US Citizens who are legal Florida residents and aged 65 and older (or younger if blind or disabled). OSS provides financial assistance to low-income seniors/disabled that cannot live independently and therefore require residential care, either in an adult family care home (traditionally what most people think of as adult foster care home), an assisted living residence, or a mental health treatment center. Assistance comes in the form of a cash payment made directly to the individual that requires care or their legal guardian. It is intended for the room and board portion of the fees charged by the residence. Other assistance is available for care services.

Florida Temporary Assistance for Needy Families: TANF is a federally-funded grant program for families in need, whether due to disability, illness or otherwise. While this program typically requires ongoing work participation to receive benefits, recipients currently enrolled in the SSI program are not included in the TANF benefit calculation, and are excluded from work requirements. The amount of assistance you receive depends on circumstances and family size, changing on a case-by-case basis. The TANF program focuses on helping children to stay in homes with their families, keeping families together, and helping needy parents to find jobs and remain with their children.
